Contributors

John Bensalhia is a freelance journalist and longtime contributor to Italy Magazine. He has written for various publications since earning a diploma in magazine journalism in 1999. A jack of many trades, he's written about everything from ports and harbors to motorcycles to Doctor Who to, of course, all things Italy. When not writing, John is probably traveling, watching films, cooking, gardening or playing the drums.

Laura Morelli holds a Ph.D. in art history from Yale University. She authored a column for National Geographic Traveler called "The Genuine Article" and has contributed pieces about art and authentic travel to CNN Radio, The Frommers Travel Show, and to USA TODAY, Departures and other media. Laura is the author of the Authentic Arts guidebook series that includes the popular guidebook, Made in Italy. Her fiction, including her forthcoming novel The Last Masterpiece, brings the stories of art history to life.

Dick Rosano has been writing for many years, with hundreds of articles in The Washington Post, Wine Enthusiast and numerous other publications. Of his 11 historical novels set in Italy, the latest is The Paletti Notebook, a mystery that leaps through time from Florence in 1550 to Washington D.C. in 2021. Parts I and II of The Sicily Chronicles cover 11,000 years on the island of Sicily from its earliest inhabitants to the present day.

Sammi DiBacco is a contributing writer and the former Associate Publisher of Italy Magazine. A Chicago-born marketing and brand strategist, writer and content creator, Sammi is an Italian-American dual-citizen who moved to Rome in 2017 to pursue her MBA and never looked back. When not exploring the rest of Italy, she can usually be found wandering the streets of Rome with her dog, Spritz. Follow her on Instagram: @sammi_iam.

Kristina Kasparian is a writer, travel photographer, health activist and expert on Italy. Her writing about wellness, self-discovery and belonging has been featured in a number of newspapers, magazines and curated online publications, including The Globe and Mail and Montreal Gazette. Kristina has studied, lived and worked in Italy and continues to spend chunks of her year there.

Liz Shemaria is an award-winning journalist and third-generation northern Californian who has trekked solo in Himalaya, interviewed artists in military-ruled Burma and ridden an overnight train across Egypt on her birthday. She has contributed to publications including BBC Travel, AFAR, Roads & Kingdoms and Fodor's Essential Italy guidebooks. She holds a master's degree in journalism from the University of California at Berkeley and is currently based in Milan.
